CHANGES TO THE DEER HUNT

Starting in 2012, Utah's general-season deer hunt will take place in 30 units instead of five regions. It's a big change, and we know you have questions about how it's going to work.

To answer your questions, we've put together some easy-to-use online resources, including a Q&A document and detailed maps. You can find these tools at wildlife.utah.gov. We've also printed a large map of all the units, which will be available at any Division office or license agent location, starting in early January.

Before the big game application period opens on Feb. 1, we will post additional information you can use in selecting a unit. This information will likely include 2011 harvest data, historic permit allocations and the latest buck-to-doe ratios on the 30 units. All of these resources may be useful as you research your hunt and decide which units to apply for.

The switch to 30 units has also prompted changes to various Division programs, particularly the Dedicated Hunter Program (see the article on page 24). This guidebook and the Division's website are your best resources for understanding those changes and navigating the 2012 big game application period.

For the latest information, please visit wildlife.utah.gov frequently in January 2012.

Who makes the rules?

The Utah Wildlife Board passes the rules and laws summarized in this guidebook.

There are seven board members, and each serves a six-year term. Appointed by the governor, board members are not Division employees.

The Division's director serves as the board's executive secretary but does not have a vote on wildlife policies.

Before board members make changes to wildlife rules, they listen to recommendations from Division biologists. They also receive input from the public and various interest groups via the regional advisory council (RAC) process.

If you have feedback or suggestions for board members, you can find their contact information online at wildlife.utah.gov.

HIGHLIGHTS

What's new this season?

Hunt deer in units, instead of regions:

In 2012, the general-season deer hunt will take place in 30 units, instead of five regions. For more information, see the article at the top of this page, visit go.usa.gov/Xtm and see the hunt tables that begin on page 32.

Nine-day rifle deer hunt in all areas: In 2012, the general-season any legal weapon (rifle) deer hunt will run from Oct. 20–28 statewide. For a complete list of season dates, please see page 7.

Changes to general-season archery deer hunt:

The general-season archery deer hunt will not be statewide in 2012. If you obtain a general-season archery deer permit this year, you must hunt the unit listed on your permit. If you're interested in the extended archery season, see the information box on page 17.

Extended archery boundary changes: Three of the extended archery hunt boundaries are changing in 2012. Visit wildlife.utah.gov/maps to see the updated maps and boundaries.

Maps and boundaries online

Looking for a map and a boundary description for your hunting area? You'll find detailed maps and boundary descriptions at wildlife.utah.gov/maps. Permits issued through the big game drawing also include written boundary descriptions.

In 2012, the Division will print and distribute a large detailed map of the 30 general-season deer units. The map will be available at Division offices and most license agent locations. If you draw a general-season deer permit, a map will accompany your permit in the mail.

Smaller group sizes: In 2012, the maximum group size is dropping from ten to four. For more information on applying as a group, see the information box on page 17.

Youth-only groups: For the first time in 2012, youth may apply together in a group of up to four hunters. For details, see the article on page 22.

Changes to youth opportunities: In order to hunt all three general deer seasons (archery, muzzleloader and any legal weapon), a youth who is 18 or younger must obtain a general-season any legal weapon permit. This is a change from previous years. For details, see the article on page 22.

New bison hunt: The Utah Wildlife Board approved a new bison hunt in the Book Cliffs for the 2012 big game season. This hunt is listed on page 47.

Buck/bull combo hunt ending: Because of the switch to unit-based hunting, the Division is discontinuing the Northern Region buck/bull combination hunt. You can use any preference points you've accumulated for this hunt in the general-season buck deer drawing.

Attention Dedicated Hunters: Because of the switch to unit-based hunting, there will be some changes to the Dedicated Hunter Program. For details, see the information box on page 24.

Don't lose your hunting and fishing privileges

If you commit a wildlife violation, you could lose the privilege of hunting and fishing in Utah. The Utah Division of Wildlife Resources can suspend the license of anyone who knowingly, intentionally or recklessly violates wildlife laws. Your license can be suspended for a wildlife violation if:

- You are convicted.
- You plead guilty or no contest.
- You enter a plea in abeyance or diversion agreement.

Suspension proceedings are separate and independent from criminal prosecution. The Utah Division of Wildlife Resources may suspend your license privileges whether or not the court considers suspension in your criminal case. You will be notified of any action against your privilege after criminal proceedings conclude. And remember, if your license is suspended in Utah, you may not be permitted to hunt or fish in most other states. (Visit ianrc.org to see a map of participating states.)

Permits for lifetime license holders: If you're a lifetime license holder, see the box on page 19 for more information about selecting a unit and obtaining your general-season deer permit.

Change in remaining permit sales: If any general-season deer permits remain after the big game drawing, they will go on sale in July 2012. This year, the Division will split the sales day, offering the remaining archery and muzzleloader permits on July 19 and the remaining any legal weapon permits on July 31. For details, see page 16.

Don't lose your bonus points: If you do not apply for a limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit—or a bonus point—at least once in a consecutive three-year period, you will lose any big game bonus points you've accrued. For details, see page 18.

And keep in mind

Drawing results: The results of the big game drawing will be available on May 31, 2012. For more information on how to obtain your results, see page 15.

Field regulations available in May: Utah's 2012 Big Game Field Regulations Guidebook will be available from license agents and Division offices by the end of May 2012. It will include the rules for both big game and antlerless hunting.

Antlerless application information: Visit wildlife.utah.gov by the end of May 2012 to find the tools and resources you need to apply for a 2012 antlerless permit.

Apply online for depredation hunts: Occasionally, the Division issues depredation permits. These permits allow hunters to remove nuisance animals that affect homeowners and livestock. To apply for a depredation permit, visit wildlife.utah.gov/depredation.

Take a closer look at the rules

This guidebook—along with the 2012 Utah Big Game Field Regulations guidebook (printing in May 2012)—summarizes the rules and laws that regulate big game hunting in Utah. Although these books are convenient quick-reference documents for Utah big game regulations, they are not all-encompassing resources.

For an in-depth look at the state's big game hunting laws and rules, visit wildlife.utah.gov/rules.

You can use the references in this guidebook—such as Utah Administrative Rule R657-5-24 and Utah Code § 23-20-25—to search the Division's website for the detailed statute or rule that underpins the guidebook summary.

If you have questions about a particular rule, call or visit the nearest Division office.

Hunting license required: Before you can apply for a 2012 big game permit, bonus point or preference point, you must have a valid Utah hunting or combination license. Please see page 12 for more information.

Mandatory reporting: Many big game hunters must report hunt information within 30 calendar days after the end of the hunting season (even if they did not harvest an animal). To see if you are required to report—and to learn how to report—see the information box on page 35 or visit wildlife.utah.gov/harvestreporting.

Collecting shed antlers: If you want to collect shed antlers and horns from Feb. 1 to April 15, you must complete an online course. You will receive a course-completion certificate that you must carry on your person while collecting the antlers and horns. For more information, see page 7.

Guidebook correction: If errors are found in this guidebook after it is printed, the Division will correct them in the online copy. Visit wildlife.utah.gov/guidebooks to view digital versions of all the Division's guidebooks.

Protection from discrimination: The Division receives federal financial assistance from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the U.S. Department of the Interior and its bureaus prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, disability or sex. If you believe that you have been discriminated against in any program, activity or facility, or if you desire further information, please write to:

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service
Office for Diversity and Civil Rights Programs—External Programs
4040 North Fairfax Drive, Suite 130
Arlington, VA 22203

Private lands: The Division cannot guarantee access to any private land. If you plan to hunt—or engage in any other wildlife-related activities—in an area made up of all or mostly private lands, you must obtain WRITTEN permission from the landowner or the landowner's authorized representative. For more information, please see Utah Code §§ 23-20-14 and 23-20-3.5.

Division funding: The Division is mostly funded by the sale of hunting and fishing licenses and through federal aid made possible by an excise tax on the sale of firearms and other hunting- and fishing-related equipment.

Antlerless big game hunting

Antlerless hunting is the primary tool biologists use to control the size of big game herds.

In Utah, you can hunt antlerless animals if you obtain an antlerless permit for the species you want to hunt. This year, you can apply online for antlerless deer, elk and moose permits, and for doe pronghorn permits.

In May 2012, the Division will provide online tools and resources to help you prepare for the 2012 antlerless application period, which runs from June 1–21, 2012. The antlerless drawing results will be available by July 11.

If any antlerless permits remain available after the drawing, you can purchase them beginning at 8 a.m. on July 17. You can buy them at wildlife.utah.gov and at license agent locations and Division offices.

The Division will print the 2012 Utah Big Game Field Regulations guidebook in late May. That guidebook will contain information you can use in the field during both the big game and antlerless hunts.

Please remember

If you obtain an antlerless deer or elk permit, you can also obtain a buck deer or a bull elk permit.

You may have only one pronghorn and one moose permit each year. If you obtain a doe pronghorn or a cow moose permit, you may not obtain a buck pronghorn or a bull moose permit this year.

Gathering shed antlers

Utah Admin. Rule R657-5-21

You may gather shed antlers or horns—or parts of shed antlers or horns—state-wide, but there is one seasonal requirement.

From Feb. 1 to April 15, 2012, you must have an antler-gathering certificate on your person while collecting shed antlers or horns. You can obtain this certificate free of charge by visiting wildlife.utah.gov and completing an online education course. You do not need an antler-gathering certificate at any other time of the year.

“Shed antlers” are antlers that a big game animal has dropped naturally as part of its annual lifecycle. Shed antlers have a rounded base that’s commonly called an antler button or burr.

A “shed horn” is the sheath from the horn of a pronghorn that the animal has dropped naturally as part of its annual lifecycle. Pronghorn are the only big game animals that shed their horns.

CWMU season dates

The Wildlife Board has established the following timeframes for hunting on Cooperative Wildlife Management Units (CWMUs). Hunters should expect to hunt at least five days within these timeframes, although the CWMU operator may allow you to hunt additional days. Before you apply for a CWMU permit, contact the operator to obtain general information about hunt dates, permitted weapons and other rules. If you draw a permit, you must contact the CWMU operator to confirm your season dates. For more information on the CWMU program, see the article on page 25.

Bull moose	Sept. 1–Oct. 31

Some deer and elk CWMUs have hunting seasons outside of these timeframes. For more information, see the hunt tables that begin on page 48 and visit wildlife.utah.gov/cwmu.

Sportsman and statewide conservation permit season dates

Long season dates—and the ability to hunt almost every hunting unit in Utah—make sportsman permits the most prized permits offered to Utah’s public hunters.

Only Utah residents can apply for sportsman permits. For more information on sportsman permits, see the box on page 16.

BASIC REQUIREMENTS

Are you planning to hunt big game in Utah this year? Before you apply for a permit, make sure you meet Utah's age, hunter education, license and permit requirements.

Are you old enough?

Utah Code § 23-19-22

To hunt big game in Utah, you must be at least 12 years old.

If you're 11 years old—but you'll be 12 by Dec. 31, 2012—you can apply for or obtain a big game permit. Remember, you cannot hunt until you are 12 years old.

If you're 11 to 13 years old, you are eligible to:

- Apply for general-season deer or youth any bull elk permits in the drawing.
- Buy general-season deer, general-season elk and youth any bull elk permits over the counter.
- Buy a Cooperative Wildlife Management Unit (CWMU) permit directly from a CWMU operator.

If you're 13 years old—and you'll be 14 by Dec. 31, 2012—you can also apply for limited-entry, once-in-a-lifetime or CWMU permits in the public drawing.

All hunters under the age of 16 must be accompanied in the field by a parent, legal guardian or responsible person 21 years of age or older. For more information on this requirement, see the information box below.

Have you passed hunter education?

Utah Code § 23-19-11 & Utah Admin. Rule R657-23

If you were born after Dec. 31, 1965, you must provide proof that you've passed a hunter education course approved by the Division before you can apply for or obtain a hunting license or a big game permit.

Proof of hunter education

You can prove that you've completed hunter education by obtaining a hunter education course Certificate of Completion (this certificate is called a "blue card" in Utah) or by using a hunting license from a previous year with your hunter education number noted on the license.

How to take hunter education

If you were born after 1965, you must take and successfully complete the state's hunter education course. It's an easy process:

1. Obtain a hunter education registration certificate. Each certificate costs only $10, and you can obtain it online, at any Division office or from a license agent.
2. Register for a class with your local hunter education instructor.
3. Take your registration certificate to your instructor on the first night of class.
4. Successfully complete the course—your instructor will then validate your certificate. The validated certificate serves as your hunting license.

Adults must accompany young hunters

Utah Code § 23-20-20

While hunting big game, a person under 16 years old must be accompanied by his or her parent, legal guardian or other responsible person who is 21 years of age or older and who has been approved by the parent or guardian.

The Division encourages adults to be familiar with hunter education guidelines or to complete the hunter education course before accompanying youth into the field.

While in the field, the youth and the adult must remain close enough for the adult to see and provide verbal assistance to the young hunter. Using electronic devices, such as walkie-talkies or cell phones, does not meet this requirement.

Both the registration certificate and the corresponding hunting license are valid for 365 days from the date of purchase. Note: Your hunting license is not valid until you complete the hunter education course.

With a valid hunting license, you can also apply for or obtain permits in the Division's hunt drawings. In order to maximize your hunting opportunities, you should register for and complete the hunter education course as soon as possible after purchasing your registration certificate.

After completing the course, you will receive your official hunter education card (commonly known as the "blue card") by mail. It will be sent to the address listed on your registration certificate. This card certifies that you passed hunter education.

You should also keep the following in mind:

- Hunters under the age of 16 must be accompanied by an adult while hunting.
- Regardless of when a student graduates, all hunting regulations (such as season dates and bag limits) will apply.
- Students who are planning to hunt out of state should allow enough time for their hunter education card to arrive in the mail.

You can see a list of hunter education courses at wildlife.utah.gov/huntereducation. You can also contact your local Division office or call 801-538-4727.

New to Utah?

If you become a Utah resident, and you've completed a hunter education course in another state, province or country, you must obtain a blue card before you can buy a resident hunting license. You can obtain a Utah blue card at any Division office by providing proof that you've completed a hunter education course approved by the Division. The card costs $10.

Do you have a license?

Utah Code §§§ 23-19-1, 23-19-22 and 23-20-3

You must have a current Utah hunting or combination (hunting and fishing) license before you can apply for any big game permits, bonus points or preference points. Licenses are available at wildlife.utah.gov and from license agents and Division offices.

Be sure to take a quick look at the date on your license before you apply for any permits or points. As long as your license is valid on the date you submit your application, you don't have to purchase a new license for the actual hunt.

For example, assume that your license expires on June 25, 2012. If you apply before that date, you do not have to purchase a new license for your hunt in the fall. All hunting and combination licenses are valid for 365 days from the date of purchase.

Do you have a permit?

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-19

To participate in any of Utah's big game hunts, you need to obtain a hunting permit. See page 13 to learn about the types of permits available in 2012.

Utah issues most of its big game permits through the big game hunt drawing. To apply for this drawing, visit wildlife.utah.gov between Feb. 1 and March 1, 2012. For additional details and important dates, see Applying for a Big Game Permit on page 14.

Carry your permit

If you are successful in obtaining a big game permit, you must have it on your person while hunting. You cannot alter your license or permit, nor can you sell, transfer or loan either of them to another person.

TYPES OF BIG GAME PERMITS

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-19

Before you apply for a Utah big game permit, it's important to know what your options are. Although residents and nonresidents can apply for many of the same types of permits, there are some differences. This section explains what you can apply for, based on your residency. For a detailed look at all of Utah's big game hunts, see the hunt tables starting on page 32.

Residents

If you're a Utah resident, you can apply to hunt one of the following:

- Buck deer—premium limited-entry, limited-entry, management buck deer and CWMU hunts
- Bull elk—premium limited-entry, limited-entry and CWMU hunts
- Buck pronghorn—limited-entry and CWMU hunts

In addition to applying for a limited-entry permit for one of those three species, you can also apply for one once-in-a-lifetime permit.

You may draw only one of the above permits each year.

Nonresidents

If you're a nonresident, you can apply to hunt all of the following:

- Buck deer—premium limited-entry, limited-entry and management buck deer hunts
- Bull elk—premium limited-entry and limited-entry hunts
- Buck pronghorn—limited-entry hunts
- All once-in-a-lifetime species for which you are eligible

You may draw only one of the above permits each year.

Note: If you obtain a nonresident big game permit (not an antlerless permit), it also serves as a nonresident fishing license.

Both residents and nonresidents

There are additional hunting opportunities available to both residents and nonresidents. Even if you apply for one or more of the hunts listed at the left of this page, you can also apply for one of the following general buck deer permits:

- An archery buck deer permit
- An any legal weapon (rifle) buck deer permit
- A muzzleloader buck deer permit

As you apply for various permits, please remember that you may not obtain more than one buck deer or one bull elk permit each year. For example, if you obtain a limited-entry deer permit, you may not buy a general season deer permit.

You also may not obtain more than one pronghorn, moose, mountain goat, bison or bighorn sheep permit in the same year.

Residency

Utah Code 23-13-2(37)

Before you apply for a big game hunt, it's important to know whether you are a legal resident of the state of Utah. See the definition of residency on page 59 to determine whether you are a resident or a nonresident.

APPLYING FOR A BIG GAME PERMIT

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-17

To participate in any of Utah's big game hunts, you need a hunting permit. Your first, and possibly only, chance to obtain one of these permits is through the state's big game drawing. Before you can apply, you must also have a valid Utah hunting or combination license. If you don't have one of these licenses, you can buy one online when you apply.

Important dates

If you are planning to apply for a 2012 big game permit, please be aware of the following dates and deadlines.

February 1: Apply online

Starting Feb. 1, 2012, you can visit wildlife.utah.gov to apply for the following items:

- Big game hunting permits
- Bonus points
- Preference points

You can also apply by calling any Division office.

To apply for a resident permit, you must be a resident on the date the permit is purchased. May 31, 2012 is considered the purchase date of the permit and the date by which you must establish residency in the state of Utah. Please see the resident definition on page 59 to learn whether you qualify as a resident.

American Express, Discover, MasterCard and VISA credit or debit cards may be used as payment, and they must be valid through June 2012. You can also use a pre-paid credit card. If you have questions about using a pre-paid credit card, check with your financial institution for more information.

When you submit your application, you'll be charged an application fee for each species or bonus point you applied for. If you haven't bought your license yet, you'll also be charged a license fee. You will not be charged a permit fee unless you draw a permit.

March 1: Deadline for permit applications

You must apply online or by phone no later than March 1, 2012. There's an 11 p.m. deadline for online applications and a 5 p.m. deadline for phone applications. To apply, simply visit wildlife.utah.gov or call any Division office.

Correcting and resubmitting your application

Did you make a mistake in your online permit application? Simply withdraw your original online application and submit a new, correct application before 11 p.m. on March 1, 2012.

You must have your confirmation number, your customer ID and your date of birth in order to withdraw your application. For each new application you submit, you will be charged a $10 nonrefundable application fee.

If you need help with your online application, please call any Division office before 5 p.m. on

You may not apply if...

You may not apply for a permit or a bonus point if any of the following conditions apply:

- Your big game hunting privilege has been suspended.
- You're under a waiting period for the species you want to apply for.
- You've already obtained a permit for the once-in-a-lifetime species you want to apply for.
- You drew a limited-entry, premium limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit in 2011, but you didn't submit a harvest report.
- You don't have a hunting or combination license.

How many permits will be available in 2012?

The Utah Wildlife Board will set permit numbers for both the big game and antlerless hunts when it meets in May 2012.

This meeting occurs after the big game application period and before the antlerless application period.

Division biologists will collect and analyze the most recent harvest and population data before making their recommendations to the Wildlife Board.

March 1. A Division employee will be available to assist you!

March 8: Deadline for bonus/preference points

If you plan to apply for bonus or preference points only, the deadline is March 8, 2012 at 11 p.m.

Visit wildlife.utah.gov to submit your application, and please remember that you must have a valid Utah hunting or combination license in order to apply for a point.

March 8: Deadline for withdrawing your application

If you decide not to hunt, you can withdraw your online permit application at no cost until 11 p.m. on March 8, 2012.

Please remember that the $10 application fee is not refundable.

May 31: Drawing results available

You'll be notified of your drawing results by e-mail. You can also learn your drawing results by visiting wildlife.utah.gov or by calling 1-800-221-0659, starting May 31, 2012.

To protect applicants' privacy—and to comply with changes in governmental records access laws—you'll receive access to only your own drawing results.

If you draw a permit, you'll receive your permit in the mail in early July.

Drawing process

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-19

Big game permits are drawn in the following order:

- First—buck deer (premium limited-entry, limited-entry, CWMU and management buck deer)
- Second—bull elk (premium limited-entry, limited-entry and CWMU)
- Third—buck pronghorn (limited-entry and CWMU)
- Fourth—once-in-a-lifetime
- Fifth—youth general buck deer
- Sixth—general buck deer
- Last—youth any bull elk

Because of the order in which permits are drawn, you won't be included in the drawing for a once-in-a-lifetime permit if you draw any of the following permits:

- Buck deer (limited-entry, premium limited-entry, CWMU or management buck deer)
- Bull elk (limited-entry, premium limited-entry or CWMU)
- Buck pronghorn (limited-entry or CWMU)

For more information about the drawing process, visit go.usa.gov/5G8.

If your permit requires you to complete an online orientation course, you must first complete the course in order to receive your permit.

Please be aware that if you receive your permit, and then the credit card you used for payment is refused, your permit is not valid.

July 10: Remaining limited-entry permits available

Any limited-entry permits remaining after the big game drawing will be available beginning July 10 at 8 a.m. You can buy permits at wildlife.utah.gov and at license agent locations and Division offices.

Sportsman permit drawing for 2013

Utah Admin. Rule R657-41, R657-42 and R657-62-25

Long season dates—and the ability to hunt almost every hunting unit in Utah—make sportsman permits the most prized permits offered to Utah's public hunters.

Only Utah residents can apply for sportsman permits. One sportsman permit is usually offered each year for each of the following species: buck deer, buck pronghorn, bull elk, bull moose, desert bighorn sheep (ram), Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep (ram), hunter's choice bison (excluding Antelope Island) and hunter's choice Rocky Mountain goat. Sportsman permits are also offered for black bear, cougar and wild turkey.

The sportsman's permit drawing for 2013 will occur near the end of 2012. If you want to apply for one of these permits, please visit wildlife.utah.gov in early November 2012.

Remaining permits are available on a first-come, first-served basis. You must have a valid hunting license or a combination license to buy one of these permits.

A license agent list is available at wildlife.utah.gov/licenses/agent.html. Before you visit any of the agents, contact them to verify their hours of operation.

July 17: General-season bull elk permits available

General-season bull elk permits may be obtained beginning at 8 a.m. on July 17, 2012 at wildlife.utah.gov and from license agents and Division offices. General-season bull elk permits (muzzleloader and any legal weapon) are available on a first-come, first-served basis. General-season bull elk archery permits are unlimited. You must have a valid hunting license or a combination license to buy a general-season bull elk permit.

A license agent list is available at wildlife.utah.gov/licenses/agent.html. Before you visit any of the agents, contact them to verify their hours of operation.

July 19: Remaining general-season buck deer permits available (archery and muzzleloader)

Any general-season archery or muzzleloader deer permits remaining after the drawing may be obtained beginning at 8 a.m. on July 19, 2012 at wildlife.utah.gov and from license agents and Division offices. Remaining permits are available on a first-come, first-served basis. You must have a valid hunting license or a combination license to buy one of these permits.

A license agent list is available at wildlife.utah.gov/licenses/agent.html. Before you visit any of the agents, contact them to verify their hours of operation.

July 31: Remaining general-season buck deer permits available (any legal weapon)

Any general-season any legal weapon (rifle) deer permits remaining after the drawing may be obtained beginning at 8 a.m. on July 31, 2012 at wildlife.utah.gov and from license agents and Division offices. Remaining permits are available on a first-come, first-served basis. You must have a valid hunting license or a combination license to buy one of these permits.

A license agent list is available at wildlife.utah.gov/licenses/agent.html. Before you visit any of the agents, contact them to verify their hours of operation.

Waiting periods

Waiting periods keep successful applicants out of the drawing for a few years and give other hunters a better chance at drawing a permit.

Extended archery deer hunt

Utah Admin. Rule R657-5-23

If you obtain a general-season archery deer permit in 2012—and you complete the online extended archery ethics course—you may also hunt any of Utah's extended archery areas during the extended archery deer season.

In December 2011, the Utah Wildlife Board approved changes to three extended archery boundaries for the 2012 season. To see the updated maps and boundaries, visit wildlife.utah.gov/maps.

The online archery ethics course is an annual requirement for archers who want to hunt the extended areas and seasons. To take the course, visit go.usa.gov/5fb before the extended seasons begin. After you successfully complete the course, print your completion certificate and keep it with you while hunting.

Please keep in mind that in 2012, the extended archery deer season is scheduled to begin the day after the general-season archery deer hunt ends.

Buck deer, buck pronghorn and bull elk permits

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-19

The waiting period for buck deer and buck pronghorn is two years. The bull elk waiting period is five years. Waiting periods do not apply to general-season permits.

Once-in-a-lifetime permits

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-19

Bull moose, bison, Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep, desert bighorn sheep and Rocky Mountain goat permits are once-in-a-lifetime permits. If you obtain a once-in-a-lifetime permit for a particular species, such as a bull moose permit, you may not apply for a bull moose permit again in the drawing.

Applying as a group

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-7 and R657-62-19

Instead of applying as an individual hunter, you and your friends and family can apply together as a group.

Both residents and nonresidents can apply together. However, if you're a Utah resident and you decide to apply with a nonresident, make sure nonresident permits are available for each hunt your group is applying for. If nonresident permits are not available for a hunt your group is applying for, the nonresident and everyone else in the group—including the Utah residents—will not be allowed to draw for that hunt unit.

Up to four hunters can apply together for limited-entry, premium limited-entry, general-season deer and resident CWMU deer, elk or pronghorn permits. Group applications are not accepted for management buck deer hunts.

If your group is successful in the drawing, all of the applicants in your group who have valid applications will receive a permit.

NOTE: Young hunters can now apply as part of a youth-only group. Please see page 22 for more information about Utah's youth hunting opportunities.

You can still apply for other once-in-a-lifetime species that you haven't drawn a permit for.

Also, if you've been convicted of unlawfully taking a once-in-a-lifetime species, you may never apply for or obtain a permit for that species again.

Permits obtained after the drawing

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-15

If you're under a waiting period for a certain species, you can still obtain any permit that remains for that species after the drawing, but your waiting period will start all over again.

Depredation hunts

When deer, elk, bison or pronghorn cause damage to agricultural crops, the Division may hold hunts that are not listed in this guide. These hunts are called depredation hunts. They may occur on short notice, involve small areas and are often limited to only a few hunters.

To apply for the depredation hunter pool, complete and submit an online application at wildlife.utah.gov/depredation.

For example, if you have two years left on your bull elk waiting period, and you buy a limited-entry bull elk permit that remains available after the drawing, you'll begin a new five-year waiting period that will prevent you from applying for a limited-entry bull elk permit for the next five years.

If you're not already under a waiting period—and you obtain a limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit that remains available after the drawing—you will lose your bonus points for that species and incur a waiting period.

CWMU, conservation, convention and landowner permits

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-19

If you obtain a CWMU, conservation, convention or landowner permit from a private individual or organization—for deer, elk or pronghorn—you won't be subject to a waiting period.

The rules regarding CWMU and once-in-a-lifetime permits are as follows:

- If you have obtained a once-in-a-lifetime permit in the public drawing in the past, you may buy a once-in-a-lifetime permit from a landowner or a CWMU operator.
- If you have not obtained a once-in-a-lifetime permit in the public drawing—and you buy a once-in-a-lifetime permit from a landowner or a CWMU operator—you may not obtain a permit in the public drawing for that species in the future.

- If you have obtained a once-in-a-lifetime permit in the wildlife convention drawing, you may not apply for that species in any other public drawing.

Bonus points

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-8

Utah's bonus point system has been put in place to increase your chance of drawing a big game permit.

Every time you apply for a limited-entry, premium limited-entry, management buck deer, CWMU or once-in-a-lifetime permit, but you don't draw one, you receive a bonus point for that species.

Applying for a general buck deer permit will not affect your ability to obtain a bonus point for limited-entry deer. If you draw a general buck deer permit, you'll still receive a bonus point if you are unsuccessful in drawing a limited-entry, premium limited-entry or CWMU deer permit.

Don't lose your points

If you do not apply for a big game limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit—or a bonus point—at least once in a consecutive three-year period, you will lose any big game bonus points you've accrued.

This rule went into effect in 2009, and point loss will not occur until after the 2012 antlerless drawing.

If you haven't applied for a limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit or point in the past two years, simply apply for one of them in 2012 to avoid losing your points.

If you aren't sure when you last applied, visit your application and drawing history online at www.utah-hunt.com/UT_Returncard.

Applying for a bonus point

Even if you're not going to hunt in 2012, you can still receive a bonus point by applying for one. To apply for a bonus point, select the appropriate bonus point code on your application and pay the $10 application fee. The 2012 bonus point application period is Feb. 1–March 8, 2012.

Because you apply for bonus points by species instead of by hunt, you may apply for a limited-entry, premium limited-entry, management buck deer or once-in-a-lifetime bonus point, even if the specific hunt the bonus point is being awarded for isn't being offered in 2012.

To apply for a bonus point, you must be eligible for the hunt the bonus point will be awarded for. For example, if you're eligible for a limited-entry buck deer permit, you're eligible to apply for a limited-entry buck deer bonus point.

Residents

If you're a resident, you may apply for one of the following:

- One limited-entry permit and one once-in-a-lifetime permit
- One limited-entry permit and one once-in-a-lifetime bonus point
- One limited-entry bonus point and one once-in-a-lifetime permit
- One limited-entry bonus point and one once-in-a-lifetime bonus point

You may NOT apply for the following:

- A permit and a bonus point for the same species
- More than one limited-entry bonus point or more than one premium limited-entry bonus point
- More than one once-in-a-lifetime bonus point

Nonresidents

If you're a nonresident, you may apply for permits or bonus points for all limited-entry and once-in-a-lifetime species. However, you may not apply for a permit and a bonus point for the same species.

Please remember that you may draw only one limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit each year.

Lifetime license holders: Obtaining your permit in 2012

Utah Admin. Rule R657-17

Lifetime licenses were last sold in Utah in 1994. If you are one of the lucky hunters who has a lifetime license, the Division wants you to obtain your deer permit as quickly and smoothly as possible:

- To select the unit you want to hunt, you'll need to complete the online lifetime license questionnaire. The questionnaire is located in the 2012 big game application. Visit wildlife.utah.gov between Feb. 1 and March 1, 2012 to access the application, complete the questionnaire and select a unit.
- If you do not complete the lifetime license questionnaire by March 1, 2012, you will not receive a permit.
- If your address changes, please notify the Division immediately.
- If you are already enrolled in the Dedicated Hunter program, you are not required to complete your lifetime license questionnaire.
- If you are planning to apply for the Dedicated Hunter program in 2012, you must complete your lifetime license questionnaire.

For more information about lifetime licenses, visit go.usa.gov/1em or see Utah Admin. Rule R657-17 at wildlife.utah.gov/rules.

How your bonus points work

For detailed information on how your bonus points work in the drawing, visit go.usa.gov/5G8.

Obtain permission to hunt private property

If you want to hunt on private property, you must obtain written permission from the landowner before you can hunt. Ideally, you should have permission before you even apply for a permit.

If you obtain written permission in advance, you know you'll be able to use the permit if you draw it.

The Division cannot guarantee access to private land, and the agency does not have the names of landowners who own property where hunts occur.

Preference points

Utah Admin. Rule R657-62-10

Utah's preference point system gives hunters who don't draw a general-season buck deer permit a better chance at drawing one the following year.

Each time you apply for one of these permits and don't draw one, you'll receive a preference point. Please keep in mind that preference points are given for a species—deer, in this case—and not for a particular hunting unit.

Applying for a preference point

Even if you won't be hunting general-season buck deer in 2012, you can still apply for a preference point by selecting code GDR on your application and paying a $10 application fee. The application period is Feb. 1–March 8, 2012.

Draw a permit, receive a preference point

If you hunt general-season buck deer, it's worth your time to mark more than just your first hunt choice when applying for a permit.

If you aren't successful in drawing your first choice—but you draw your second, third, fourth or fifth choice—you will still receive a preference point.

For example, if you choose the Monroe unit as your first choice and the Cache unit as your second choice, and then you draw a permit for the Cache unit (your second choice), you will receive a preference point.

If you draw your first choice, you will not receive a preference point.

How your preference points work in the drawing

For detailed information on how your preference points work in the drawing, visit go.usa.gov/5G8.

Surrendering a permit

Utah Code § 23-19-38 and Utah Admin. Rule R657-42

What happens if you obtain a permit and then realize you won't be able to use it?

As long as your season hasn't started, you should consider surrendering the permit. It's an easy process, and it's important if you want to keep your bonus points or preference points and avoid a waiting period.

Depending on the type of permit you have, there are different rules for surrendering it. For more information on surrendering a permit, please see go.usa.gov/18V.

Individuals

How permit surrender affects bonus points

If you draw a limited-entry, premium limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit—and then you decide to surrender it—it's a good idea to return it to the Division before the season opens.

If you surrender it before the start of the season, you'll get all of your bonus points back, and you'll receive a bonus point for that year.

You'll also be eligible to purchase a reallocated permit or any other available permit you're eligible to obtain.

How permit surrender affects preference points

If you obtain a general season buck deer permit, and then you find that you won't be able to use it, you can get your preference points back if you surrender the permit before the season begins. You'll also receive a preference point for that year and be eligible to purchase reallocated permits or permits that are still available after the drawing.

How permit surrender affects waiting periods

If you surrender your permit before the season begins, the waiting period will be waived. General-season permits are not subject to waiting periods.

Groups

How permit surrender affects bonus points

If you obtain a permit through a group application—and then you decide to surrender it—you will not have your bonus points reinstated or earn a new point unless your entire group meets the following conditions:

- All group members must surrender their permits
- Permit surrenders must occur more than 30 days before the start of the season

Members of the group may not surrender their permits individually unless the surrender occurs because of:

- Activation in the military
- An injury that will prevent the individual from hunting
- Death

For more information on surrendering a permit, please see go.usa.gov/l8V.

How permit surrender affects preference points

If you obtain a permit through a group application—and then you decide to surrender it—you will not have your preference points reinstated or earn a new point unless all group members surrender their permits before the season begins.

Members of the group may not surrender their permits individually unless the surrender occurs because of:

- Activation in the military
- An injury that will prevent the individual from hunting
- Death

How permit surrender affects waiting periods

If members of a group surrender their permits before the season begins, the waiting period will be waived. General-season permits are not subject to waiting periods.

Dedicated hunters

If you're enrolled in the Dedicated Hunter program, and you decide to surrender your permit, you must return it to the Division before Aug. 18, 2012 (the day the general archery deer season opens).

Private landowner and CWMU permit holders

If you obtain a limited-entry landowner permit or a CWMU permit, you can surrender it.

Limited-entry private landowner permits must be surrendered before the season the permit was issued for opens.

To surrender a CWMU permit, there are two options. If possible, you should surrender your CWMU permit before the CWMU season opening dates listed on page 8.

To surrender your permit after the CWMU season has started, you and the person who issued the permit to you (the CWMU operator or the landowner-association operator) must sign an affidavit stating that you did not hunt with the permit. Both of the signatures must be notarized.

After the signatures are notarized, submit the affidavit and the unused permit to the Division.

Permit refunds and exchanges

Utah Code § 23-19-38 & Utah Admin. Rule R657-42

Obtaining a refund

The Division rarely issues refunds for permits, licenses or certificates of registration, but there are some exceptions. To see if you're eligible for a refund, visit go.usa.gov/18V.

Permit exchanges

The switch to 30 general-season deer units has affected the Division's approach to permit exchanges.

You may exchange your permit for one that's available in another unit, but it must be for the same species and sex. For example, you cannot exchange a buck deer permit for a bull elk permit. The exchange must occur before the season opening date on the permit you originally obtained.

You must also pay a $10 handling fee to exchange a permit.

Duplicate licenses

Utah Code § 23-19-10 & Utah Admin. Rule R657-5-5

If your unexpired license or permit is destroyed, lost or stolen, you can obtain a duplicate from a Division office or a license agent for $10 or half of the price of the original license or permit, whichever is less.

The Division may require that you sign an affidavit testifying that the license or permit was lost, stolen or destroyed.

To obtain a duplicate limited-entry or once-in-a-lifetime permit, you must visit a Division office.

If you drew a license or permit, but you never received it, the Division may waive the fee that you would normally have to pay to get a duplicate.

CHANGES FOR YOUNG HUNTERS

In 2012, there will be a few changes to youth hunting opportunities. Multiple-season deer hunting will change slightly, and youth will be able to apply together in youth-only groups. Despite those changes, one thing will remain the same: Twenty percent of Utah's general-season buck deer permits will still be reserved for young hunters.

Hunting multiple seasons

If you will be 18 years of age or younger on Aug. 18, 2012 (the opening day of the general-season archery deer hunt), you might have some extra hunting waiting for you this fall. It all depends on what type of general-season deer permit you obtain.

Any legal weapon permits

If you obtain a general-season any legal weapon deer permit, you may use archery tackle to archery hunt the unit listed on your permit from Aug. 18–Sept. 14, 2012.

If you haven't harvested a deer by the time the archery season ends, you may hunt the same unit during the general muzzleloader and general any legal weapon deer seasons, using the appropriate equipment.

When those seasons end—if you still haven't harvested—you may use archery tackle to hunt in the extended archery areas after completing the archery ethics course available at go.usa.gov/195. For more information on the extended archery hunt, see the box on page 17.

Muzzleloader permits

If you obtain a general-season muzzleloader deer permit, you may hunt only during the general muzzleloader season. You must use muzzleloader equipment and hunt the unit listed on your permit. You may not hunt during the general archery or any legal weapon seasons.

This is a change from previous years, when you could hunt multiple seasons after obtaining a general-season muzzleloader permit.

Archery permits

If you obtain a general-season archery deer permit, you may hunt only during the general archery deer season and the extended archery deer season.

During the general season, you may hunt in the unit printed on your permit.

During the extended season, you may hunt in the extended archery areas after completing the archery ethics course available at go.usa.gov/195. For more information on the extended archery hunt, see the box on page 17.

You may not hunt during the general muzzleloader or general any legal weapon seasons.

Youth-only groups

If you will be 18 years of age or younger on Aug. 18, you can participate in the youth drawing for general-season deer permits. You can submit an application as an individual hunter or—for the first time—as a member of a youth-only group.

No adults allowed

Starting in 2012, up to four young hunters can apply to hunt together in a youth-only group. The Division supported this change after receiving feedback from members of the public who wanted their children to be able to hunt buck deer in the same unit with siblings, friends and cousins.

When you apply in a youth-only group for the general-season deer hunt, all hunters must meet the age requirement or the application will not be processed with the other youth applications.

For more information about how the hunt drawing works, please visit go.usa.gov/5G8.

Youth elk permits

Up to two youths may apply together for youth any bull elk permits, but both individuals must be 18 years of age or younger on Sept. 15, 2012. For information about season dates, see page 7.

DEDICATED HUNTER PROGRAM

Utah Admin. Rule R657-38

Enjoy more hunting opportunities and help Utah wildlife

Want to spend more time hunting deer in Utah? You should consider applying for the Dedicated Hunter Program.

This year, the Division will hold a drawing to fill open spots in the three-year program.

If your name is drawn—and you meet the program requirements—you can expect great hunting opportunities and a chance to help Utah wildlife.

Benefits and requirements

As a Dedicated Hunter, you have the opportunity to obtain a deer permit every year for three years. Even better, you can hunt all three seasons—archery, muzzleloader and any legal weapon (rifle)—with your Dedicated Hunter permit. In exchange for this opportunity, you agree to complete the following requirements:

- Participate in all three years of the program
- Pass an online wildlife conservation and ethics course
- Complete a minimum of 32 service hours on Division-approved wildlife conservation projects
- Harvest only two deer during your three-year enrollment period

To learn more about the program's requirements and to read important reminders, please visit wildlife.utah.gov/dh.

Joining the program

Online applications for the Dedicated Hunter Program will be accepted from Feb. 1–March 1, 2012 (as part of the 2012 big game application process). You may apply as an individual or in groups of up to four hunters. Results of the drawing will be available on May 31, 2012.

To apply for the program, visit wildlife.utah.gov/dh and click "How to apply" in the menu at the right of the page. The links will walk you through the program's online orientation course and lead you to the online application.

You must successfully complete the orientation course before you will be able to apply online. The course takes a minimum of 30 minutes to complete. Do not wait until the last minute, or you might not have time to complete the course and submit your application before the deadline.

You must pay a $10 application fee to apply for the program. If your application is drawn, you will be charged the appropriate program fee. (Dedicated Hunter program fees are listed with license and permit fees on page 9.)

Program has changed

If you're already a Dedicated Hunter—or you plan to apply for the program in 2012—there are a few changes you'll want to keep in mind.

- The Dedicated Hunter drawing will take place as part of the 2012 big game drawing. The application dates are from Feb. 1 to March 1, 2012.
- Drawing results will be available on May 31, 2012.
- If you are already a Dedicated Hunter in the second or third year of the program, you will have the opportunity to select a general-season unit before the big game drawing. You will receive a letter explaining how to make your unit choice.

- If you enter the 2012 drawing with a loyalty point, it will automatically be converted into a Dedicated Hunter preference point.
- For new Dedicated Hunters, the service-hour requirement has dropped from 40 hours to 32 hours.

Please visit wildlife.utah.gov/dh to learn more about these changes.

Dedicated Hunter preference points

If you apply for the Dedicated Hunter Program in 2012, and you aren't selected to participate, you'll receive a Dedicated Hunter preference point. These preference points give Dedicated Hunters a better chance at getting into the program in future years, if they aren't selected to participate in the program in 2012.

If you don't want to apply for the program this year—but you'd like a better chance at participating next year—you can choose to purchase a Dedicated Hunter preference point.

COOPERATIVE WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT UNITS

Utah Admin. Rule R657-37

Utah's Cooperative Wildlife Management Unit (CWMU) program provides landowners with an economic incentive to keep their private range and forest lands as productive wildlife habitat.

The landowners receive vouchers for hunting permits, which they can sell for profit, as long as they also allow a percentage of public hunters on their lands.

CWMUs comprise more than two million acres of land in Utah. They will provide more than 3,400 hunting permits for bucks and bulls in 2012. About 14 percent of those permits are available to the general public through the state's big game drawing.

Obtaining a CWMU permit

If you're a Utah resident, there are two ways to obtain a CWMU permit: you can apply for one in the state's big game drawing, or you can obtain a permit voucher from the landowner or operator of the CWMU you want to hunt.

If you're not a resident of Utah, you cannot apply for a CWMU permit in the public drawing. You can, however, obtain a permit voucher directly from the CWMU landowner or operator.

For more information on redeeming a voucher and using a CWMU permit, please visit wildlife.utah.gov/cwmu and click the Information tab.

If you draw a permit to hunt on a CWMU, you must contact the CWMU operator to obtain essential information about when and where you'll be hunting. The operator will also provide the CWMU rules.

For more information on CWMU season dates, see page 8. For information on individual CWMU properties, visit wildlife.utah.gov/cwmu.

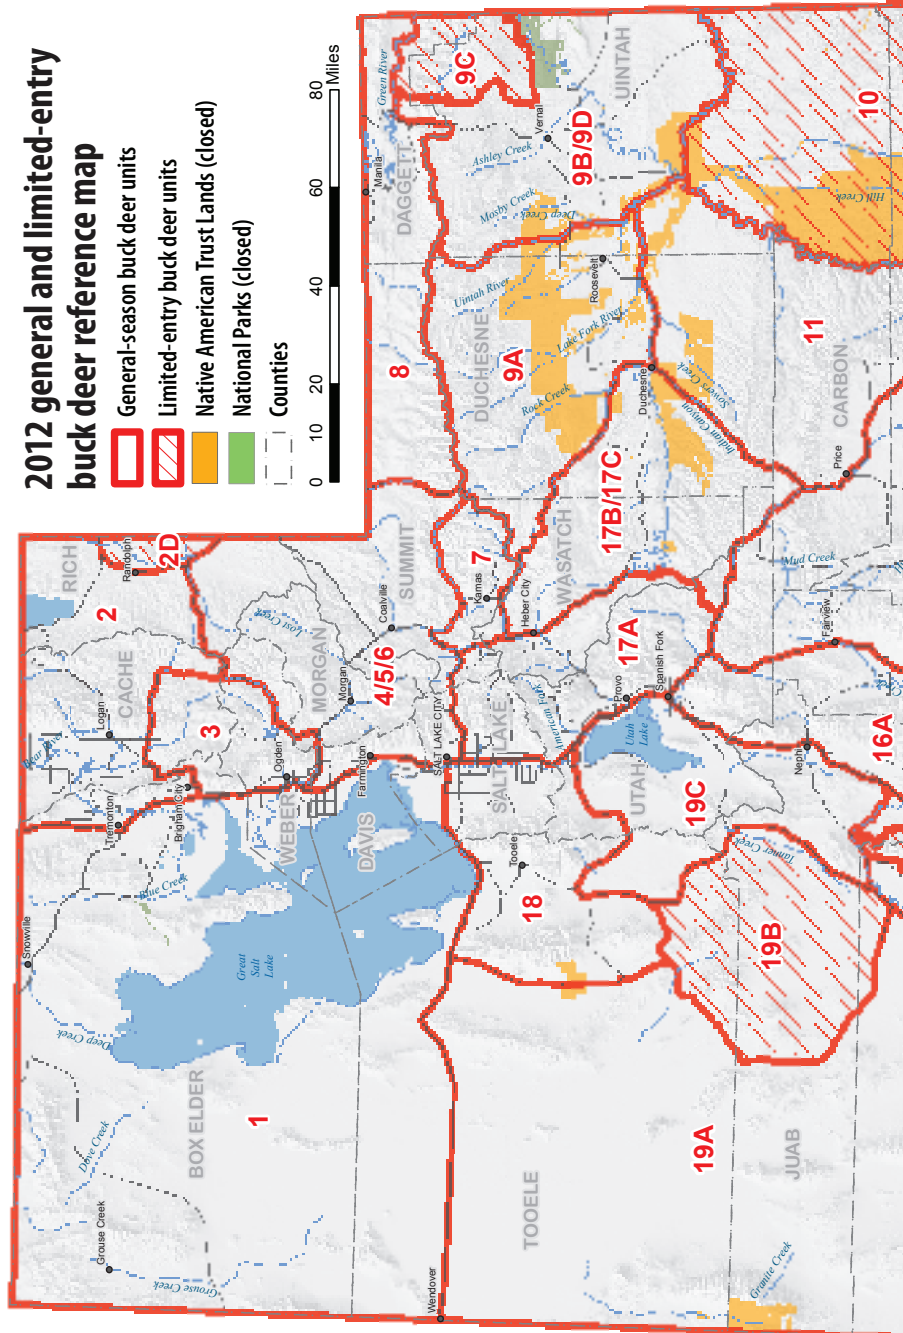

Mandatory harvest reporting

If you obtain a CWMU permit, you must report information about your hunt within 30 days after it ends. See page 35 to learn more about this important requirement or visit wildlife.utah.gov/harvestreporting to complete your harvest report online.

Mandatory reporting

If you obtain a premium limited-entry, limited-entry, management buck deer, CWMU, conservation, sportsman, convention or once-in-a-lifetime permit, you must complete a harvest survey questionnaire within 30 days after your hunt ends. This information is required even if you didn't harvest an animal.

If you harvested an animal, this is an ideal time to return your tooth packet. Returning your tooth packet does not fulfill the harvest survey requirement.

You can report harvest information about your hunt online by visiting wildlife.utah.gov/harvestreporting or by calling 1-800-221-0659.

Reporting your hunt information is important. If you don't report your hunt information within 30 days of the end of the hunt, you won't be allowed to apply for a once-in-a-lifetime, premium limited-entry, limited-entry, management buck deer or CWMU permits, or bonus points in 2013.

If you didn't report your 2011 harvest survey questionnaire by the deadline, you can restore your eligibility to apply for a 2012 permit by paying a $50 late fee. For more information, call 1-800-221-0659.
